Miller pledges $80,000 return

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Jim Miller will return $80,000 to Granite City coffers over four years if elected city treasurer, he said this week.

"I see this election as the equivalent of a referendum: Does the city need a full-time treasurer," Miller said at a campaign fund raiser Monday at Charlie's Restaurant.

Miller, a former city alderman, is challenging two-term incumbent Treasurer Gail Valle in the April 1 election.

Miller said he will make the post an advisory position, and vowed to return $80,000 — half of the treasurer's salary — to the city over four years.

He said the city treasurer position should have been eliminated eight years ago, since many responsibilities have been transferred to the city comptroller's office or eliminated.

"As far as city government goes, the comptroller does most of the financial work," Miller said.

He noted that an independent study of city operations conducted in 1993 recommends eliminating the treasurer position, but said that state law requires municipalities to have a treasurer.

"It doesn't say it has to be a full-time position," Miller said.

Valle has said that her job is vital to the city and reducing the treasurer's responsibilities would place too heavy a burden on an already limited City Hall staff.

But Miller said he does not necessarily intend to reduce the treasurer's responsibilities.

"I plan to expand services," Miller said, adding that he would increase the number of hours the office is open on

Laub's daughter gets cut on tax assessment

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The tax assessment on the home of Granite City Township Assessor Darlene Laub's daughter was cut by Laub's office by more than $15,000 just 42 days after it was purchased, county records show.

But Laub insists that the new assessment reflects a more accurate estimate of the true market value of the home.

"We don't make any adjustments without documentation. The truth is those kids overpaid tremendously for that house," Laub said.

"We don't look at names when assessments are made. The neighborhood factor was adjusted to bring it more in line with the rest of the neighborhood and the market."

"I'm proud of the work I've done in this office. I treat you the same whether you're my best friend or my worst enemy."

The fair market value on the house at 2539 Cleveland Boulevard was set at $114,000 in 1994 and $116,100 in 1995.

The house was purchased for $115,000 on March 26, 1996. But the fair market value plummeted to $101,670 after being re-assessed 42 days later on May 7, county records show.

Joe and Beth Juneau purchased the house for $115,000 on March 26, 1996, county records show.

But the fair market value plummeted to $101,670 after being re-assessed on May 7, 1996, according to property tax records obtained in Edwardsville.

"You can't make an assessment based on a single sale," Laub said.

Clue inside today

A new promotion kicks off in this issue — the Press-Record's Easter Egg Hunt.

The object of the contest is to locate a very special Easter egg, which is worth $225 to the lucky reader who finds it.

A clue to the whereabouts of the Press-Record's Easter Egg is hidden inside today's paper, on a special page of Easter egg advertisements. Subsequent clues will appear in the next three Thursday issues.

The egg will be hidden outside, in a public place that requires no digging, climbing or destruction of property.

If you think you have found the Press-Record Easter Egg, bring it to the paper's office at 1815 Delmar to arrange to claim your prize.

If nobody finds the Easter Egg, the prize money will be donated to the Tri-City Area YMCA.

Security troubles county officials

Bomb threat at courthouse reportedly came from Granite City

A spate of security problems recently at the Madison County Courthouse is prompting a request to limit access for county officials after hours.

The recent incidents include a bomb threat on Feb. 23, which turned out to be bogus, according to a report from the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

The threat was telephoned in to the Granite City Police Department from a pay phone in that city. Police searched the courthouse in Edwardsville and found nothing. Attempts to locate the caller were unsuccessful.

A man also was discovered in the courthouse one evening; he claimed to be a juror who fell asleep, said Marty Siglock, building administrator.

"I have always had problems with the security in that building."

— Don Sonnenberg
Committee member

Siglock told the county's Buildings Committee on Monday that his main concern was access to the courthouse after hours. The committee authorized Siglock to draft a letter to each department asking them to voluntarily limit after-hours access for judges, court reporters, janitors and other employees who have keys.

If the letter doesn't work, further steps may be taken, Siglock said.

Committee member Don Sonnenberg, D-Maryville, also the police chief in his hometown, said he was concerned about security.

"I have always had problems with the security in that building," Sonnenberg said.

Member Tony Bosich, D-Wood River, suggested that all people entering the courthouse after hours be required to obtain a key or escort from the Sheriff's Department, which is one block away. The committee did not act on his suggestion.

Siglock said a sign-in policy in the courthouse probably would require personnel to be on duty

Clerks pocket $10 for licenses

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

While Madison County charges $20 for a marriage license, most of those authorized to issue those licenses — including Granite City Clerk Judy Whitaker — actually charge $30.

"There are five or six deputy clerks in the county and most all of them charge $30," County Clerk Debbie Saltich said. "This is something (former County Clerk Evelyn Bowles) did for years."

The deputies who charge $30 keep the $10 profit. Pam Whistler in Godfrey is the only clerk in the county, outside of Saltich, who charges only $20, Saltich said.

"They have to spend some time coming up here. And technically, it's not part of the city clerk's responsibilities," Saltich said. "They are offering the service as a convenience to those who don't want to come to Edwardsville."

By state law, marriage licenses must be issued in the News in review

News in review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is designed for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record/Journals.

Development moving along

Pieces are falling into place for what some local officials are calling "the largest industrial development in the history of Madison County."

Four local state legislators have sponsored a bipartisan bill in the Illinois House of Representatives to authorize a 2,700-acre enterprise zone just north of Pontoon Beach.

The massive enterprise zone would be created by the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority and would provide tax benefits for industrial tenants.

"Right now, we're looking at the possibility of 12,000 new jobs," said State Rep. Steve Davis, D-Bethalto, one of the bill's sponsors.

Developer Rodney Thomas of Thomas Development in St. Charles, Mo. has requested a zoning variance on a parcel of property in the proposed enterprise zone along Illinois 111.

Davis compared the scope of the proposed development to that of Earth City in west St. Louis County.

Drugs, guns, cash seized

Granite City police arrested a 41-year-old male resident of a quiet city subdivision Thursday morning after finding more than two pounds of uncut cocaine, nearly $35,000 cash and an arsenal of weapons.

Kevin G. Kingsley, of 25 Devon Hill Lane, was charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance with the intent to sell it and unlawful use of a weapon in a felony warrant issued Friday.

Madison County Circuit Judge Charles Romani set bond at $250,000, but in an unusual move also ordered that the full amount must be posted before Kingsley can be released.

Partney: cut post

Mayoral candidate David Partney says he will do away with the job of economic development director, if elected. "There is no need for a separate office and the expenditure of large sums of money to staff a separate facility for that function," Partney said. "If elected, I will actively seek to (prevent) flight from the city ... and will promote economic development by use of the mayor's office itself."

But current Economic Development Director Dan Brown said the position is vital to the city's future.

"Whether I hold the position or someone else does, the position is vital to the city's future," Brown said. "There are 15,000 economic development agencies throughout the United States competing for business and industry. Without this office, we can't compete."

Cruse, Partney criticize Selp

Two critics of Mayor Ron Selp say he has not done enough to advance the city's economy and taken too much credit for the accomplishments of others.

Selp, elected four years ago, is running for re-election on his record of accomplishments, including an economic atmosphere that has led to more than $150 million invested by industry over the last four years and the lowest unemployment rate in the city in 30 years.

Former Mayor Von Dee Cruse and mayoral candidate David Partney both said this week that Selp has failed to continue the eight years of progress Cruse's administration began, and that Selp is too quick to take credit for work done by others.

Norton submits plan

An Ohio-based company that has operated a mixed-waste recycling facility since 1993 filed initial documents Friday to build a similar plant in Wood River.

Norton Environmental will need approval from city and state environmental officials before construction can begin on a $10 million "dirty merf" in the city's Lewis and Clark Environtech Business Park near the intersection of Illinois 3 and Illinois 143.

Mayoral debate March 24

The four mayoral candidates in Granite City will have an opportunity to voice their views and respond to questions from the public one week prior to the April 1 election.

The Granite City Press-Record/Journal will sponsor a mayoral forum on Monday, March 24, at 8 p.m. at Granite City High School.

The candidates, Paul Ray Bowler, Dewey Melton, incumbent Ron Selp and David Partney, will each be given five minutes to present opening remarks and then will field questions from newspaper readers and those in attendance.

Those who would like to submit questions for consideration should send them to: Debate questions, c/o Bob Slate, 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, IL 62040. Questions may also be sent via email to "SkoopSlate@aol.com". Questions will be screened for objectivity and interest. No partisan questions will be asked. Questions should be submitted by 5 p.m. March 18 to be considered.

Videos battle gang problems

By Jason White
Staff writer

A Cahokia company recently completed two videos that teach communities how to fight the spread of gangs.

Since 1981, the Gary Whiteaker Corporation has produced over 100 videos, audio cassettes, booklets, posters and other materials for the treatment and prevention of drug and alcohol addiction. The two 30-minute videos, shot over the past year at sites around Illinois and the Metro-East, are a new area for GWC.

"When we first decided to do 17 videos, I thought gangs were kids that ran around with spray paint doing mischief," said GWC President JoAnn Moore Pluff, a 15-year Cahokia resident. "We didn't understand what gangs were all about."

Pluff and operations manager John Earls got a rude awakening when they began shooting footage in December 1996 at the Big Muddy River Correctional Facility in Ina, Ill.

"We got different gang members in one room, and it almost broke out in a riot," Earls said. "We walked out of there thinking we had nothing, but came to the realization that we had a piece to the puzzle."

That piece and others fell into place over the past year, completing the picture — that gangs are highly structured, paramilitary subcultures that threaten the quality of life in small towns and big cities alike.

"Gangs are everywhere," said Pluff. "There are no racial or sex boundaries ... one of the largest growing segments is female gangs."

St. Clair County Sheriff's Department Officer James Lay

Mike McKinney points out graffiti on the old Assumption High School in East St. Louis. McKinney, a certified gang crime specialist, was one of several experts who helped make two gang prevention videos for a Cahokia company.

said the area between Centerville and Cahokia has had a sharp increase in gang activity over the past several years.

"It's the thing to do with troubled kids," he said.

Lay was present at a substation opening at the Camp Jackson Volunteer Fire Department last week.

"The gang presence dictates that (the sheriff's department) be down here," he said.

The sheriff's department is trying to slow the growth of gangs through programs like Gang Resistance Education and Training, although it might be several years before the program's success can be determined, he said.

"We can't be successful on the law enforcement end without education being part of it," he said.

On another education front, Cahokia High School Principal Larry Taylor said at a school board meeting in January that keeping the high school free of graffiti is a top priority. One of Pluff's mottos about graffiti is "Read, Report and Remove."

"Graffiti is like an underground newspaper," said Pluff. "It tells members if they're planning on retaliation, it can identify snitches or who the gang leaders are, or glorify dead or living members."

"By the time graffiti makes its way to the front of the building, you've got a serious gang problem," said Earls. "As gang activity flourishes, you see an increase in petty theft, assaults, drive-bys and

'show-bys,' fights at school and intimidation problems."

Pluff sees parallels between gangs and drug addiction. "People's attitude about gangs is similar to the denial of an alcohol or drug problem," said Pluff. "People start to recognize an addiction only after it gets out of hand."

She added that children join gangs for the same reasons people abuse drugs.

"Most kids join gangs for love or brotherhood," she said. "To me that's scary, because they should be getting that somewhere else."

"There's intelligence there; you couldn't be unintelligent and understand the hand signs and rituals," she said. "It's up to us as adults to channel it in a positive direction ... a lot of kids are crying out for help."

Videos list gang membership warning signs

According to FBI statistics, about 400,000 children from ages 9-17 are sworn members in over 1,000 gangs nationwide; that number does not include another 250,000 transitory members.

The Gary Whiteaker Corporation, which recently released two gang education and prevention videos, lists the following as warning signs:

- Poor attendance at school and truancy.
 - Gang-sign or graffiti on personal belongings.
 - Changes in personality and academic performance.
 - Fights with other children.
 - Ratty menagram-style clothes.
 - Incidents of violence or drug activity along bus routes.
 - Carrying a pager.
 - Possession of weapons, drugs or large sums of money.
- GWC President JoAnn Moore Pluff says parents shouldn't think of these signs as "just a phase."
- "Gang activity flourishes because of denial," she said. Moore recommends several steps parents can take to prevent gang involvement:

- Know the child's friends.
 - Be a positive role model.
 - Volunteer at the child's school.
 - Communicate with children and develop their self-esteem.
 - Emphasize the importance of school and good study habits.
 - Demand accountability for time and money spent.
- Local governments must also get involved, by working with schools, businesses and churches to provide an environment where young people have recreational, educational and vocational opportunities.
- "It's important that communities show kids the alternatives," said Pluff. "Too many kids, the perception of success is the older gang members, because (the kids) have so few positive role models."

Sports complex planned

By Mark Hodapp
Staff writer

Belleville will soon be home to a new regional sports complex.

Plans on Friday for a Family Sportsplex Inc. were unveiled at a press conference in the Belleville Economic Progress office.

The $1.8 million, 61,000-square-foot complex will be built on 17.5 acres north of Illinois 177 near the intersection of Green Mount Road.

Owners Marvin Hayden and Tim Reeb — both from Belleville — are optimistic about the region and the draw of the complex.

Hayden said several other cities were considered for the complex, including Columbia and Fairview Heights, but Belleville showed the most interest.

Construction on the facility may start in mid-April and be finished in August.

Reeb said the main focus of the center will be families.

Hayden added he also hopes to attract national volleyball and soccer tournaments. The complex is about a mile from the new YMCA.

Inside, the one-story complex will include five volleyball courts, a regulation soccer field, a basketball court, pitching and batting cages, exercise equipment, a concession area and a pro shop.

Outdoors, there will be up to two lighted soccer fields, two of 100' soccer fields and two sand volleyball courts.

Man's alias fails to fool police

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

When Maryville police stopped Brian S. Durborow in Troy Tuesday afternoon, they thought they had captured a suspect in a domestic dispute.

When police took Durborow to jail — after running a check on his driver's license — even Durborow thought he was being arrested for domestic battery and a felony charge of criminal damage to property.

"He really didn't think he was going to have any other problems," Maryville Police Chief Don Sonnenberg said.

But police knew otherwise: Durborow's problems were only beginning. That's because Durborow wasn't Durborow. He is really Michael Scott Myatt, 34, a Granite City native, who had allegedly walked away from a Colorado prison work release program nearly four years ago.

Maryville Police Officer Bob Davis said the warrant for Myatt had been attached to the alias name.

Fingerprints and a photograph faxed by Colorado authorities confirmed Myatt's identity. Myatt eventually admitted his identity after seeing the photo, Davis said.

Myatt was being held in the Madison County Jail on Wednesday, awaiting extradition to Colorado.

Davis said that Myatt was serving a prison sentence in Lakewood, Colo., on drug-related and possibly theft charges. Myatt allegedly walked away from a work release program there in 1993.

The driver's license issued in the Durborow name had a Granite City address on it. Davis said Myatt had been living in Maryville for about 18 months and had been employed by Southwest Steel Supply Co. in Madison.

According to Davis, Myatt admitted getting the driver's license by obtaining a birth certificate from records he searched through in Granite City.

"(Myatt) said he found one for a child who had died at 3 weeks old who had about the date of birth he wanted," Davis said. "He said it was very easy to do."

The beginning of the end of life on the lam came for Myatt after Maryville police were called to a domestic disturbance at Bobby G's, 104 S. Donk about 1:10 p.m. Tuesday. Myatt had already left the scene but officers stopped him about 20 minutes later in Troy.

Before fleeing the scene, Myatt stopped at the Donk Street apartment he had shared with his girlfriend where he allegedly used a hammer to smash a television and other items, Davis said.

"We figured he might have gone on to another bar and one of our officers spotted him in Troy," Sonnenberg said. "He was trying to hide behind a building and he might have tried to run but there was so much traffic, he didn't have anywhere to go."

Sonnenberg said that information from the case was being forwarded to the Secretary of State's office.

Myatt was not able to obtain a Social Security card so he improvised.

"He jumbled up his own (as Myatt) and that's what he used when he went to get the driver's license," Sonnenberg said.

Accidents claim lives of two men

Two men from South Carolina and Arkansas died in separate crashes in area over the weekend.

The first crash occurred around 11:45 p.m. Sunday at Illinois Routes 3 and 143. A Ford pickup truck driven by Robert Shewmake, 26, of Wood River collided with a car driven by Jerry D. Fielding, 48, of Clarksville, S.C.

The impact caused a small fire in Fielding's car and Wood River rescuers had to extinguish the flames before extricating Fielding. He was pronounced dead of head, neck and chest injuries at the scene shortly after midnight.

Shewmake was airlifted by an ARCH helicopter to a St. Louis hospital in critical condition.

Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke said police are still investigating which directions the vehicles were traveling and cause of the crash.

In the second crash, Ray DiSera Jr., 39, of Alma, Ark. was killed about 2:30 a.m. in a crash on Interstate 55 just south of Hammel.

Burke said DiSera was driving a Chevrolet utility truck northbound. A northbound BMW sedan driven by Lee R. Irsinghausen, 40, of Springfield then allegedly rear-ended the truck, clipping the driver's side mirror, corner forcing the truck off the road and ejecting DiSera, authorities said.

Burke said officials believe the truck may have driven over DiSera; he was pronounced dead of massive injuries at 3:38 a.m.

Further details of the accidents, including any injuries suffered by Irsinghausen, were not available Monday.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Should one spouse be required to pay the other spouse alimony (maintenance) if the parties are only married for a relatively short period of time? This question arose in a recent case decided by an Illinois Appellate Court. In this case Richard and Rosalind were married in August of 1989 and separated in August of 1992. No children were born during the marriage. Rosalind filed for the dissolution of marriage in October of 1992, and at that time she was 35 years old and Richard was 39 years old. When a hearing was held in January of 1995, the evidence presented indicated that Richard was grossing about $2,586 in his new job. Rosalind testified that she was diagnosed with myotonic dystrophy in September of 1992, and that she was unable to work. Her symptoms at the time of the hearing included difficulty in walking and balance problems. Rosalind had been a bank teller for 18 years and grossed approximately $1,000 per month. However, she voluntarily left her employment in December of 1994 because she was unable to adequately perform her job responsibilities. She eventually received social security benefits in the amount of $836 per month. The question in this case was whether Richard should have to pay maintenance to Rosalind since they were only married four years. The factors which a court is to consider in deciding whether to award maintenance include the income and property of each party, the needs of each party, the present and future earning capacity of each party, the standard of living established during the marriage, the duration of the marriage, and the age and the physical and emotional condition of both parties. The trial court ordered Richard to maintain health insurance coverage for Rosalind for the next two years at a cost of $187 per month. Rosalind from receiving maintenance based on the short duration of the marriage. The Appellate Court reversed this decision with regard to maintenance. The Appellate Court noted that the duration of the marriage was just one of the many factors to be considered. Given the devastating condition of Rosalind's health, the Appellate Court concluded that the trial court's order barring Rosalind from receiving maintenance was an abuse of discretion. Therefore, the Appellate Court sent the case back to the trial court for a determination of an appropriate amount of maintenance.

Building will be big asset

(The following editorials are reprinted from The Telegraph.)

It was quite a wait, but state legislators have finally broken a deadlock that held up funding for a new School of Engineering building at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The building will house SIUE's fast-growing engineering program and figures to be a significant asset to the county and the region.

SIUE will get more than $21 million for the project under an agreement on a $610 million package of capital improvement bond projects hammered out by Gov. Jim Edgar and legislative leaders of both major parties. Partisan bickering had blocked agreement on state capital improvements bonds for more than two years.

SIUE officials have been seeking a new home for the engineering program for nearly a decade.

The three-story, 97,000-square-foot building will be north of the new Art and Design Building in the campus core. Plans and specifications for the building were completed several years ago. They were funded by a fiscal 1990 appropriation of $343,500.

Also included in the capital improvements package are $215,000 for upgrading electrical distribution systems at the Pere Marquette Correctional Center and $180,000 for renovation of two buildings and replacement of a storage building at Pere Marquette State Park.

Started in 1968 with 37 undergraduates, SIUE's engineering program has grown to more than 700 students. For several years, the university has been forced to split the program between the university's Science Building and leased space in the University Park research and business complex.

SIUE's engineering program has an outstanding reputation in the field, and economic development officials say it is a significant asset to the region when it comes to attracting and retaining businesses.

The new building will allow continued growth of the program and ensure that it remains an important educational resource.

Voters must exert pressure

It may have been Will Rogers who said the United States has the best politicians money can buy.

It was a clever line but grossly unfair to the many officials who have served their constituents honestly and honorably.

Still, money always has talked to some politicians. Today, it seems to command an influence unprecedented in our history.

A 16-member, bipartisan panel wants to dilute that influence in Illinois.

After a two-year study, the Illinois Campaign Finance Task Force, co-chaired by former Democratic U.S. Sen. Paul Simon and former Republican Gov. William Stratton, announced recently a 19-point reform plan.

Simon called special-interest money "a plague on our electoral process" and said the lack of state restrictions on political contributions is intolerable.

That's right, Illinois has no limits on the sources or size of campaign contributions to state and local politicians. None.

Labor unions, industry groups or wealthy individuals sometimes donate as much as $100,000 at a time to top political officials.

A just-released University of Illinois study shows that the state's top legislative leaders have received just under $7 million since 1981 from their top contributors. The federal government and most states limit contributions. Among the states, Illinois, Idaho and California have the fewest restrictions.

The task force proposes to limit contributions from individuals, groups and corporations to $2,000 in each election, compared to a federal limit of $1,000. The panel proposes a $5,000 limit on contributions by political action committees set up by unions, corporations and other special interests.

Other proposals:

- *An individual's or group's contributions to all candidates in a given election would be limited to $200,000.
- *"Transfers" of contributions by candidates' political committees would be limited to $25,000, a restriction that would significantly limit the power of legislative leaders who control large political funds and use them to keep fellow lawmakers in line.

"Politicians who leave office would have to close their campaign committees rather than continue to raise money, and they no longer could pocket whatever money had not been spent."

*Legislative candidates could not hold fund-raisers in the Springfield area during the busiest part of legislative sessions.

*Unions and business groups would have to file more information about their involvement in campaign financing.

*Campaign donors would have to disclose their employers.

*People reviewing a candidate's campaign records would no longer have to fill out forms identifying themselves.

Gov. Jim Edgar supports the latter two recommendations, but he and legislative leaders are expected to oppose the others.

Many politicians insist that contributions, even huge contributions, don't buy votes. But most concede that big money buys access to officeholders. And access can translate into influence.

Edgar's proposals are worthy of support, but they do not constitute the sort of fundamental reform that is needed.

Pressure for that sort of reform won't come from the governor's office or the Legislature; it will have to come from the people.

Letters policy

The Granite City Press-Record/Journal welcomes letters to the editor. The newspaper provides the "Letters" column to give readers an opportunity to voice opinions on various items of interest.

Letters should be brief, preferably less than 10 paragraphs. Typed letters, or letters that are neatly written are given priority treatment.

Carol's comments

Clinton 'hospitality': just tacky

Tacky: The single best adjective I can think of to describe the hospitality of the host and hostess with the Mostest, Bill and Hillary. I have no idea whether it was illegal and I doubt strongly that it was unique, a "first," but tasteless (and stupid) it certainly was.

I'm referring, of course, to the White House as a bed-and-breakfast catering to some 938 guests over the past four years. Not just your run-of-the-mill B & B, either. Your choices of the Queen's Bedroom or the Lincoln Bedroom, use of the swimming pool, the bowling alley, the movie theater. Pretty heavy stuff.

The President, an amiable and extroverted fellow, has defended his gracious treatment of those who have enjoyed their overnights in the executive mansion, claiming that he "thinks" that at least seven-eighths of them were people who "had relationships with independent of my campaign for president in '92."

Some folks, he admitted, had helped him in his first campaign and he considers it an appropriate way of saying, "Thank you."

He also denies that there was any sort of price tag on invitations to these visits and events. Exchanged memoranda between Clinton and several of his aides would indicate otherwise and estimates of money contributed to the Democratic Party coffers by these guests range from $10 million to $27 million.

I've always prided myself with having a far better-than-average number of friends and, let's face it, it's taken a number of years to acquire them. I'm a helluva lot older than Bill.

Try as I may, though, I question that I could list 819 of them (the approximate number Clinton claims to have entertained) and, while I certainly, over the years, have known at least that many people, the vast majority of them aren't folks I'd casually invite to "Come onna my house."

Naturally, I lack the space as well as the entertainment budget even to consider it, but I also lack the inclination. Even the modest slumber parties of my girlhood would tax my limits of both space and patience.

However deplorable I may find Clinton's judgment in this matter, I'm apparently in a majority, if I can believe recent surveys that indicate that his public approval rate is currently 60 percent.

The most recent survey by the Pew Research Center indicates that even though an overwhelming number of those polled believe this most recent disclosure of White House hospitality is scandalous, they simply don't care. An earlier poll by USA Today-CNN-Gallup showed that while 42 percent of those questioned said Clinton was wrong to invite major contributors to stay with the First Family, 53 percent considered the issue to be irrelevant to his job performance and character.

This jaded public reaction seems to typify our attitudes and beliefs about politics and politicians and, inevitably, reminds me of the story Bill Ryan once told me of one of the pet sayings noted (or, if you will, notorious) Madison County office holder: "Politics does make strange bedfellows and if you're not adept at getting in and out of strange beds, you'd better stay out of it." Including, I guess, Lincoln's and the Queen's.

Letters to the editor

Legislators need input

TO THE EDITOR:

The average electricity rate for homeowners is 8.83 cents per kilowatt hour. We in Illinois average more than that—11.25 for Commonwealth Edison customers, 10.52 for Illinois Power, 9.05 for CILCO, and 7.28 for Central Illinois Light Company.

At the national level and also at the state level, legislators are now debating legislation that would allow the homeowner to choose a utility company the way one chooses long distance. When that happens, and it will, everyone agrees, won't we all flock to buy our juice from CILCO at 7.28?

Understandably, CILCO is pushing hard for deregulation. Both Commonwealth Edison and Illinois Power are eager that deregulation language require those of us that jump ship first help pay for the expensive nuclear plants the companies are saddled with before we get into our utility rate lifelines.

As representative of the Citizens Utility Board, I sat in on a recent breakfast in Collinsville sponsored by CURE (Coalition for Utility Rate Equity) where a group representing retail merchants and school districts asked freshman congressman John Shimkus (a member of the Congressional committee that will handle this hot potato) his position on this matter.

His response seemed to indicate that he feels that since the feds gave the utilities bad predictions on future use, they prompted them to build these expensive facilities, they should not be saddled with the cost, and it should be passed on to the ratepayer as the utilities wish.

He further defended this position by saying that a lot of retired people are counting on the investments in utility stock for income.

I don't think that many of us there shared his mind set on that issue. Because of his membership on this important committee, he is getting pressure from all sides. As he said, he feels like he is drinking from a fire hose. While he is being approached by various interest groups, he needs to help from individual households, who after utility deregulation, will be able to save $300 a year, according to a group called Illinois Citizens for a Sound Economy.

Legislators in Springfield are also now considering this issue, so utility consumers need to call or write their lawmakers before these bills are passed if we are to affect the content of this important legislation.

Inhumane act toward animals

TO THE EDITOR:

The Madison County Humane Society of Edwardsville is neutering and spaying puppies and kittens at 6 and 7 weeks old.

This is a very inhumane act. These puppies and kittens cannot mature into healthy, normal, well-developed animals.

The suggested age for spaying and neutering is from 6 to 6½ months of age. If this is the only way they can be sure that an animal will be spayed or neutered, then they are adopting out far too many animals to people that cannot afford or should not own an animal.

It seems they are more interested in inflating their ego than the well-being of the animals in their care.

As long as the Madison County Humane Society continues this practice, I will go out of the county to adopt and spay or neuter when the animal is old enough.

Student seeks information

TO THE EDITOR:

I'm going to talk about myself a little bit. I'm 10 years old, my name is Chad J. Nelson. I go to Red Bank Elementary School. I'm in the 5th grade and my teacher is the coolest of all. The state I'm doing looks pretty fun.

I would like some postcards or a lot of information about Illinois that would help me with my report. Thank you for your time, Editor.

The reduction in assessed valuation will result in a corresponding reduction of about $390 in property taxes paid next year, depending on the township multiplier.

A detailed analysis of the assessment shows that the reduced value of the Juneau home is the result of lowering the quality grade on the property and lowering the neighborhood factor.

The grade and the neighborhood factor are used by assessors to adjust the valuation based on materials used, the condition of the property and the general neighborhood characteristics.

Laub said the adjustment was just one of hundreds that are done each year to reflect the market for homes in the township.

"If I wasn't doing my job, keeping uniformity in the assessments, we would be back to double-digit multipliers like we have before," Laub said. "That's why it is so important to have a local assessor. We know what's going on and can make the proper adjustment."

The value of Laub's own home at 1535 Cottage Avenue was reduced by more than $17,000, to $68,490 in 1996 from $85,500 in 1994, records show. That resulted in a $600 reduction in property taxes paid last year, records show. The assessment increased again to $84,660 in 1996 — nearly to the 1994 level.

Laub said the reduced assessment was the result of extensive damage caused by flooding. The lower tax figure was also the result of taking a homestead exemption in 1995 after not doing so the previous year, she said.

"I didn't even take all the adjustments I was entitled to," Laub said. "Everybody whose home sustained flood damage was entitled to it."

She said her office handled about 1,500 flood adjustments in 1995 alone.

The homestead deduction, a $2,000 reduction in the taxable portion of a home's assessed value, is available to any homeowner age 65 and older. Laub said her mother-in-law lives in the house and is listed as a part owner of the home.

"It's completely legal," she said.

Among the other homes that received a significant reduction in 1995 based on flood damage is that of her brother, mayoral candidate Dewey Melton, whose wife Karen works for Laub.

The Meltons' home's fair market value was reduced by $5,800 in 1995, based on flood damage and adjustments in the quality grade, and neighborhood and cost and design factors, records show.

Melton's home is in Nameoki Township and Laub said she had nothing to do with the property's assessment.

According to county records, the Melton home at 2509 Westmoreland Drive is one of the lowest valued homes in the neighborhood.

While she said she tries to treat all property owners fairly, Laub said that people criticize her office for political reasons.

"They can't find anything legitimate to complain about, so they act like we're doing something illegal," Laub said. "I feel I've worked hard for the taxpayers to fairly distribute the property tax burden among residential, commercial and industrial property owners."

weekends and evenings. "I hope we're able to accomplish some changes for the betterment of the community."

"Change is good," he said. "Without change, the city will lose its way."

Miller said his 14 years of experience in finances at Union Electric, where he handles about $10.5 million a day, plus his eight years as an alderman make him an ideal candidate for the post.

"I believe I am qualified for the job," he said.

Miller said he has no ax to grind with Valle.

"This is strictly an issues campaign," Miller said.

Well Aware 2000

Mammograms are vital

In order to keep our readers informed about the latest medical advances, the Granite City Press-Record has teamed up with St. Elizabeth Medical Center to provide readers with the information they need to know about their health. "Well Aware 2000" is a regular feature of the newspaper. Each issue features community physicians discussing groundbreaking and relevant health care topics.

The focus is on information readers can use to educate themselves, prevent illness and improve their current health. We welcome your letters, questions and comments. Let us know your concerns and we will try to address them.

A mammogram is one of the most important steps a woman can take to protect her health, according to Dr. Albert Mark Hammerman.

In the last five years, 229,000 women have died from breast cancer, which affects one in eight women. Breast cancer is the second leading cause of cancer deaths in women. With early diagnosis, however, the prognosis improves dramatically.

Mammograms can detect 90 percent of lumps, even those smaller than one-eighth of an inch. Smaller lumps in early stages are often harder to detect even in breast self-examination.

A clinical examination with screening mammography is recommended at one- to two-year intervals beginning at age 40, Hammerman said.

A clinical examination and mammography should be performed annually beginning at age 50, he said.

Hammerman is the chief of radiology services at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Most women are familiar with mammograms — x-ray procedures which create an image of the breast using low-dose radiation. During the procedure, a female technologist positions the breast so two views can be taken, allowing all areas of the breast tissue to be visible. The breast is compressed, so the x-ray is clear, allowing smaller tumors to be detected.

As with all tests, it is important how the mammograms are read or interpreted. A "double reading" procedure, such as is used at SEMC, is best, Hammerman said.

"All mammograms are independently screened by two experienced radiologists," he said. "Double readings have detected up to 15 percent more cancer cases, thus increasing the effectiveness of mammography in diagnosing early breast cancer."

The news media have recently featured stories on area mammography facilities that were providing poor or inaccurate test results. Dr. Hammerman suggests looking for facilities that have been approved by the American College of Radiology's Mammography Accreditation Program.

SEMC's radiology services meets the requirements for approval, which include a stringent review by a panel of breast cancer-detection experts.

Getting a mammography from a qualified facility can be a life-saving step.

Dr. Albert M. Hammerman, MD, is the chief of Radiology Services at SEMC. He completed his undergraduate education and earned his medical degree at Washington University in St. Louis. He has written numerous professional articles and made presentations on various topics. In addition, he is an assistant clinical professor at Washington University School of Medicine, serving as section chief for computed tomography. He is certified by the American Board of Radiology, is a member of the National Board of Medical Examiners and of the American College of Radiology.

county where the wedding will take place.

Whitaker began offering the service after taking office three years ago.

"I asked Judy if she would be interested in offering the service as a convenience," Saltich said. "I plan to meet with some other clerks after this election to see if they're interested."

Whitaker acknowledged that she charges $30 for a marriage license. She said the additional funds have been used to decorate her office in City Hall and purchase candy and balloons for children who visit her office.

"I tell everyone who calls for a marriage license that they can get it in Edwardsville for $20," Whitaker said. "Sometimes they decide to go there and sometimes they come to me."

Whitaker said she has had customers from Missouri, Brooklyn, Madison and Venice, as well as Granite City, seeking licenses.

City Comptroller K.P. MacTaggart said the service has nothing to do with the city and that Whitaker does not accept checks made out to the city for the service.

Whitaker said she only accepts cash and keeps the funds separate from city funds.

"I've earned that money. I haven't done anything illegal. I've done it at the hospital, at home, in the evenings and I've even done it on Saturdays when people are in a hurry," Whitaker said. "A lot of people say they really appreciate it."

In St. Clair County, marriage licenses cost $25 and are issued only by County Clerk Sam Flood.

•Security

24 hours, which is not the case at present.

Security in the courthouse normally is the responsibility of the Sheriff's Department. Four or more deputies are stationed in the building during the day to monitor traffic and prisoners.

The Edwardsville Police Department has jurisdiction outside the courthouse.

Hertz said the Sheriff's Department doesn't consider security after hours inside the courthouse to be its responsibility. However, the Sheriff's Department did handle the bomb threat, which was called in at about 8:30 a.m. on a Monday.

Security at the courthouse during the day was beefed up after the fatal shooting of Greenville City Attorney Thomas Meyer last Aug. 12 by admitted murderer Kelly McGinnis. Authorities feared McGinnis might target the judge in his previous divorce case, Ann Callis-Rongey, who works in the courthouse.

At that time, access was restricted to one door; three other doors were closed. Under the restrictions, every one entering the courthouse other than employees now must pass through a metal detector.

Senior Fair set for Monday at SIUE

About 3,000 seniors from Peoria to Pattonville will pack the University Center on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Monday, March 10, for the 27th annual Senior Fair.

This is why a clinical examination and activities are geared toward seniors, but anyone who is interested in learning about the wide variety of valuable programs and services available to older adults will benefit from the information available at the fair.

"The fair is a wonderful example of the university and community working together to provide an educational, cultural and recreational event for older adults and their families," said Anthony Traxler, director of the fair and of SIUE's gerontology program.

Music, dancing, crafts, tours and health screenings will be the order of the day. More than 70 agencies, organizations and businesses from across the bi-state area will provide information on services for seniors, including health care, legal and financial issues, employment, educational opportunities, Senior Olympics, computer use and Alzheimer's.

Health care professionals will provide screenings for anemia, blood pressure, cataracts, cholesterol, dental problems, diabetes, glaucoma and pulmonary/lung diseases.

The fair begins at 9:15 a.m. and continues until 3 p.m. All activities are free, except lunch.

For more information on the Senior Fair, call 692-3454.

Trojans

"Madison was so muscular," said Grubbs, "that we had trouble doing what we needed to do inside. It took us out of our offense somewhat. And defensively we didn't do the little things we needed to do to win. You can get away with that sometimes, but not at this stage, not against a team like Madison."
Longtime Greenville sports-writer Jeff Leidel remarked, "We were simply over-matched. This isn't the same Madison team we saw at our shootout on Feb. 15. They're much better. They're playing with a passion and a purpose now. They'll get to Champaign. And when they get there, they are always successful. I think they'll win it."

Leidel may be overstating the case, but he has at least one Trojan in his corner. "We're going to win it all," said Maurice Baker. "We're going all the way."

Fiala to hold baseball camps at BAC

Youth soccer league
The Gateway East Illinois Youth Soccer League will be accepting applications for the spring season for boys and girls teams U-10 to U-14. For information, call Tom Posnanek at 656-8334 or E-mail SOC-CER 1941@AOL.COM.

Mitchell registration
The Mitchell Athletic Club is taking team registration for its summer recreational league (non-select) in baseball, softball and T-ball.

Boys and girls ages 4-19 are eligible. For more information, call Dave at 931-3690.

Park league sign-ups
The Granite City Park District is now taking registration for boys and girls wanting to play youth baseball, tee-ball or ponytail softball this summer.

The sign-ups are for boys and girls who would like to play in the 1997 summer park leagues but are not currently on a park district team or have never played in the park district leagues.

Boys and girls who will be ages 6-16 may have their name placed on the list. Every effort will be made to place them on a team.

Boys and girls tee-ball is for ages 6-7, youth baseball is for ages 8-16 and ponytail softball is for ages 8-16.

New teams are formed from the compiled list. Names on the list are also used by managers of existing teams that need to fill their rosters.

Anyone interested in coaching or managing a youth baseball team may visit the Wilson Park office or call recreation supervisor Ray Hoffman at 377-3059.

"RJ" Krause All-Stars
The "RJ" Krause All-Stars Sports Club of East St. Louis is seeking basketball games and tournaments for boys and girls teams in grades 3-10. The club also needs sports equipment, uniforms, cheerleading outfits, used basketball shoes, sports magazines, books, games or trading cards. For more information, call Krause at 398-1201.

All-star tryouts
The St. Louis International Youth Baseball Association will select an all-star team to play baseball in Australia in March 1997. The team is open to boys born March 30, 1985, or later. For more information, call Al Bond at (314)-845-3032.

Softball tournament
The St. Louis Girls Fastpitch Spring Softball Tournament will be held April 18-20 by the Creve Coeur (Mo.) Athletic Association. There is a 4-game guarantee. The entry fee for age groups 10-18 is $150. For more information, call Mike (532-3218) or John (527-6604).

Eagles Registration
The national champion St. Louis Eagles begin their 10th season in 1997. They will have open tryouts March 18-19 at the Webster University Gymnasium for its boys 15-, 16- and 17-and-under teams. For more information, call Rich Gray (831-5178) or Vince Estrada (773-7455).

Adult Softball
The Catholic Youth Council is forming adult slow pitch softball leagues. Leagues are available for coed, men's and women's teams. The 12-game season begins the week of April 30. For more information or application, call the CYC office at (314) 371-0106.

AAU tryouts

Special Olympics run
The Illinois Special Olympics Benefit Run and Walk will be held Saturday, April 19. The one-mile event will start at 9 a.m. at the O'Fallon Township Building, 801 E. State St. in O'Fallon.

Male and female age divisions are 12-and-under, 13-15, 16-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, 60-and-over. Awards will also be given to the top male and female wheelchair competitors.

The entry fee is $10; the first 400 entries receive a T-shirt. Proceeds of the run go to the Illinois Special Olympics. Albert Wright's jumper at 3:12 of the third period was to be the Comanches' last field goal until the 3:01 mark of the fourth quarter. Limited to only seven free throws in that stretch, Cahokia lost ground fast, falling behind by 12 with 3:57 to go.

The 3-point shooting of Kyle Briggs was a key factor in Granite City's 55-43 regional win over Cahokia.

Brewer and Ray Smith keyed a 10-5 surge that put Granite back in the lead, 33-27, after three quarters.

Albert Wright's jumper at 3:12 of the third period was to be the Comanches' last field goal until the 3:01 mark of the fourth quarter. Limited to only seven free throws in that stretch, Cahokia lost ground fast, falling behind by 12 with 3:57 to go.

Cahokia (9-15) was a miserable 16 of 50 (32 percent) from the field on the night. Granite City was a much more respectable 48 percent, but owed that to a phenomenal fourth quarter shooting display. The Warriors hit nine of 10 shots in the frame to ice the win.

"We settled down and played a good second half. We finished strong," said Van Buskirk.

The Warriors shot 61 percent from the field in the second half. Dustin Brewer, who had been held to one point in the first half, was five-for-five in the fourth quarter and finished with 14 points. Ray Smith had 14 second half points and finished the night with a game-high 21.

Kyle Briggs, playing with a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee, saw limited action, but hit all three shot attempts and both free throws for 11 points. Zack May played well the entire game and scored eight points.

Aaron Blanks, Cahokia's 6-1 junior guard, was the only Comanche player in double figures with 10 points. Ron Taylor put in eight.

A dejected Cahokia coach Roscoe Dowell called his team's performance "the worst game we played all year. We didn't look like a Cahokia team. We were terrible. I have no explanation. We just didn't come to play."

Van Buskirk, however, had an explanation. "We made them play our game," he said. "We had to get them in and keep them in a half-court game. We didn't want to get in a running game with them. That's how they score their points. We made them dangerous. I thought we did a good job of dictating how the game would be played."

The fifth-seeded Warriors moved to 11-13 on the year and play in the regional title game at 7:30 p.m. Friday on the court of fourth-seeded, 17-11 Chatham Glenwood.

Accident's effects were far reaching

ALTON — Area motorists got a chance to see how much an accident in one part of the metropolitan area affects those elsewhere last Friday when a tanker overturned near the Clark Bridge at Alton.

The tanker truck leaked gasoline on the Illinois approach to the Clark Bridge kept miles of highways closed for about nine hours Friday while hazardous materials experts reloaded the fuel and cleaned up the scene.

"It was potentially a very dangerous situation," Fire Chief John Sowders said. "We had the danger of the gasoline leaking and spreading and a significant danger of an explosion and fire. One spark and the whole thing could blow," he said.

The roads remained closed until after 1 p.m., when emergency teams finished transferring the gasoline and pulled the empty truck back up onto the road.

The road closing sent hundreds of motorists to other highways and bridges, resulting in major jams along Interstate 270 on both sides of the Chain of Rocks bridge.

The Greendyke Transport truck, based at the Enid, Okla., company's Hartford terminal, was loaded with 8,000 gallons of gasoline when it turned over about 2:30 p.m. on a curve of the Landmarks Boulevard approach to the bridge across the Mississippi River.

The truck was righted at 10:50 p.m. and some roads were reopened shortly thereafter. The Clark Bridge reopened by midnight.

HOW TO...

PLACE AN AD
There are four easy ways to place your ad. BRING IT: 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, IL 62040.

PHONE IT: Call 877-7700 or dial 876-2000. Phone lines are open from 8 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

FAX IT: Send your ads directly to our Classified Fax Center at 618-876-4240. We'll call you back for confirmation.

MAIL IT: Send your ads to: Classified, Granite City Press Record Journal, 1815 Delmar, Granite City, IL 62040.

PAY FOR AN AD
You will be billed immediately following last run day. You may pay in person, through the mail, or over the phone or fax. We accept cash, checks, and credit cards (MC/Visa).

WRITE AN AD
Capture the reader's attention with larger headlines, bold type, and symbols. Tell them up front what you're selling or seeking. Describe what is unique about your item, adding details such as color and condition. Avoid abbreviations; they make your ad harder to read and therefore less effective. Include your phone number and the hours you are available. Always include the price; it will increase your response.

CANCEL AN AD
Deadlines for ad cancellation are identical to deadlines for ad placement. You may cancel an ad in person or over the phone. To cancel an ad, phone 877-7700.
